DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1, 15, 17, 18, 19, 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hansen in view of Kuntz. The patent to Hansen teaches structure substantially as claimed including a tray (10), comprising a body (12), support mechanism (28, 30) integrally connected to the body, a leg (figs. 8, 9) a mounting structure the only difference being that the mounting structure is not a spring biased dowel structure. However, the patent to Kuntz (at 44, 45) teaches the use of outwardly extending spring biased dowels to provide for a mount against interior components. It would have been obvious at the time of the invention to modify the structure of Hansen to include a spring biased dowel mount, as taught by Kuntz since such structures are conventional alternative structures used in the same intended purpose of providing a mount, thereby providing structure as claimed. The structure of Hansen can both be cantilevered supported and supported by a leg structure as a structure is entitled to all of it's uses. The use of clips, recess for structures in trays is well known and commercially used. Applicant is given judicial notice of such. Further, the structures(48, 52 ) are legs as claimed. It is repeated that it would have been obvious to modify one mount for another mount since such structures are conventional alternative structures used for the same intended purpose of providing an attachment. It is this knowledge of conventional alternative structures used for the same intended purpose of providing a mount that provides a suggestion and/or motivation to modify.

Claim 16 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hansen in view of Kuntz as applied to the claims above, and further in view of Sammons. The patent to Hansen teaches structure substantially as claimed as discussed above including a tray structure, the only difference being there is not a peripheral raised edge. However, the patent to Sammons teaches the use of a peripheral edge to preclude movement of articles placed thereon to be old. It would have been obvious and well within the level of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to modify the structure of Hansen to include a peripheral edge, as taught by Sammons since such structure are conventional structures used in the same intended purpose, thereby providing structure as claimed.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 04/26/07 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. It is noted that the term "integral" defines a structure that is part of a whole. As such, the prior art teaches such. However, the prior art does not teach a spring-biased dowel integrally and unitarily formed that is positioned at and extends along an end (edge).

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
